

Obs. 3/13/22: "Numerous 10-12" SS remote triggered avalanches on anything steep enough to slide where the new snow fell on solar crust. Photo [is] the cliffs on the north side of Companion Lake as you leave the lake heading for the wilderness boundary. Had not avalanched on the way out in the morning, noticed the avalanche on the way back this afternoon. " Photo: L. DeMarcus

Advisory Region
Cooke City
Longitude

-109.94W

Latitude

45.02N

Avalanche Details: Natural and skier triggered storm slabs

Cooke City, 2022-03-14