Activity

Skiing

Toured in Beehive and Middle Basins this morning. Observed some past dry avalanche small activity on NW facing slopes, likely natural during the storm. Snow on E facing slopes at ~9300ft became wet by 9 am and we observed lots of natural pinwheeling and some very small loose wet activity on SE facing slopes above and below. Sunny and rapid warming. Came across a small loose wet avalanche from yesterday in Beehive on a SW facing slope just N of the Prayer Flags area, picture in attached. Excellent skiing that morning before it got warm.
